

What is the minimum age for serving in the House of Representatives?	Which of the following states has only one “at-large” member in the House of Representatives?
Which portion of the Constitution gives Congress the power to make laws?	Necessary and Proper Clause
implied powers	Which of the following members of Congress would represent the greatest number of constituents?

25	Alaska
The Necessary and Proper Clause	Also known as the Elastic Clause, the portion of Article I, §8 of the Constitution that grants Congress the authority to do whatever is required to execute its enumerated powers.
General powers suggested by the Constitution rather than specifically enumerated within it.	A senator from California, given the state's large population.

What are the term lengths for the members of each house of Congress?

Which of the following powers is unique to the House?

Which of the following can initiate impeachment proceedings?

issue network

Senate members serve six-year terms, while House members serve two-year terms.	he power to originate revenue bills by introducing tax legislation is unique to the House.
Any impeachment proceedings must begin in the House of Representatives.	A complex set of cooperative relationships between groups of citizens affected by a particular set of policies and the bureaucratic agency and congressional committee with jurisdiction over those policies.